ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Many people provided assistance and encouragement, which helped to make the Fifth National Quail Symposium a success. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and the Caesar Kleberg Wildlife Research Institute provided financial support and allowed their respective staffs to prepare and conduct the Symposium.

Nena Chandler and Cynthia Ross provided editorial assistance during the preparation of the proceedings. Their help was and is very appreciated!

Bill Kuvlesky chaired the Local Arrangements Committee and handled most of the local arrangement details. Fidel Hernández handled the Poster Session, assisted with many of the local arrangement duties, and organized the field trip to the King Ranch.

Fred Bryant and Carolyn Appleton secured much of the funding for conducting the symposium. L. Pete Heard and the United States Department of Agriculture, Natural Resources Conservation Service, Wildlife Habitat Management Institute provided financial support for publication of the proceedings.

Terry Blankenship and Lynn Drawe and the Welder Wildlife Foundation organized registration activities. Terry also provided assistance with the field trip to the King Ranch.

Dale Rollins and Ken Cearley organized the exhibitors and exhibit hall. Robert Perez solicited door prizes and raffle items for the symposium.

Mike Berger served as the copy editor and spent many early mornings reviewing manuscripts. I personally thank all who have helped with the Symposium and appreciate the opportunity to serve as Program Chairman and Editor of the Fifth National Quail Symposium.
